To the Training Program Director and Associate Training Program Director,

This letter is to inform you of the nominal price increase for the ASH Fundamentals for Hematology Fellows (FHF) program, for the 2023-2024 fellowship year.

The FHF program provides a cost-effective way for trainees enrolled in hematology-related fellowship programs to gain access to the Society's products and services. Currently the program includes:

- ASH Associate membership. Benefits of membership include subscriptions to ASH's various publications, including Blood, The Hematologist, and Hematology, the ASH Education Program. Associate members are also eligible to apply for ASH awards and have access to other member-only services, such as Consult a Colleague. View additional member benefits.
- One complimentary ASH meeting registration per year, including the ASH annual meeting (or access to recorded sessions for one ASH meeting).
- Online access to the most recent edition of the ASH Self-Assessment Program (ASH-SAP), which includes more than 250 case-based multiple-choice questions grouped into six themed tests. ASH-SAP tests combine to offer up to 75 continuing medical education (CME) and American Board of Internal Medicine Maintenance of Certification (MOC) points.
- Discounted price for the ASH Hematology In-Service Exam.
- New in 2022: Access to the ASH Hematology Review Series (HRS).

Effective May 2023, in preparation for the 2023-2024 fellowship year, the FHF program price will total $175 per fellow.

As noted in the benefits listed above, the FHF program will also include the coveted ASH Hematology Review Series (HRS). The HRS is designed for fellows preparing to take the internal medicine hematology certification exam or those desiring a comprehensive update of hematology standards of care. This series provides a free review of hematology patterned after the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM) Certification Examination Blueprint.

After a successful two years of piloting this series to assist fellows preparing for the hematology board exam during the COVID-19 pandemic, ASH will continue offering the resource to trainee members as a part of FHF. Outside of FHF, HRS will cost a nominal fee of $50 for associate members beginning July 1, 2022.

The new price for FHF will take effect May 2023 in preparation for the 2023-2024 fellowship year. We wanted to make you aware of this price change well in advance for budget considerations.

Thank you for your continued participation and collaboration.
