HONORIFIC AWARD NOMINATIONS ASH Award for Leadership in Promoting Diversity

The ASH Award for Leadership in Promoting Diversity is intended to honor an individual who has demonstrated extraordinary commitment to diversity and inclusion in the field of hematology.

Nominees have a recognized record of accomplishment of significant and meaningful contributions that specifically promote inclusion and diversity in hematology. These contributions should be recognized broadly as contributing to hematology research, education, mentoring, clinical practice, administration, or a combination of these categories. Nominees should be actively involved in the advancement of diversity and the inclusion of underrepresented groups such as women and racial/ethnic minority populations who have faced barriers to success because of social disadvantages.

Nominations must include the completed nomination form and a letter of nomination that summarizes the nominee's contributions to diversity and inclusion and explains why the nominee is worthy of the distinction of the award. In addition, a copy of the nominee's current CV and NIH biosketch, annotated with "Contributions to Science," if available, must be submitted with the nomination form.

NOTE: The nominator must be an active member of ASH, but the nominee need not be a member of ASH. Neither the nominee nor the nominator is required to be from an underrepresented minority group.
